The Problem

Do you feel like you've worked so hard, but you're still finding yourself stressed about what you're doing?

You thought that this next life change would be the one, but it feels like you're doing the same thing again.

A Persona

John is 31. He's a dad. He goes to school full time. He's a recovering AI engineer, and he's quite progressive when it comes to considering men's mental health.

John is seeking wealth. He knows it's there. He just hasn't tapped it yet, and that's everything.

Why Now?

AI is making our workplace more toxic. The sprint towards figuring out what we can do is insane right now.

People, including myself, need a tool that can help them figure out who they are as a founder.

How We Make Money

Free to start, $7 a month once they use it enough.

*Tiered monthly subscriptions to get deeper into the writing tools:
$7, $35, $70 — and enterprise-level pricing beyond that.*

Go to Market

I show up where they already are — LinkedIn, and incubators in San Diego or San Francisco.

I need help from a startup incubator making the connections and explaining the playbook nationally.

The Moat

Your ideas are woven together with other founders on the platform.

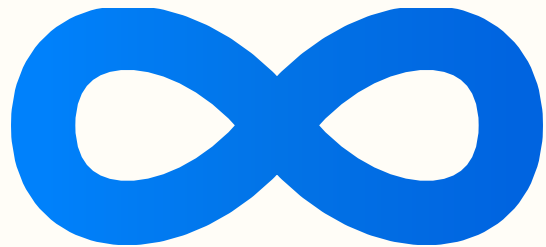

You come because they have what you need, and you stay because everyone's there.

The Vision

It's a two-sided marketplace and a social network — for the types of craft and the types of founders that have traditionally not been funded.

A marketplace and a social network combined is a payment network — and that's where a lot of money can be made.

Competition

The Ask

Pre-seed: $300k – $950k.

$300k — the minimum: founder's salary so I can keep building full-time.

Each increment above that just speeds it all up (least to most):

- Travel and office costs
- Cloud infrastructure costs
- Marketing
- AI agentic development costs
