Team

Tyler Lindow

10 years elevating engineers. From science museums to IPOs.

What have I learned?

Engineers want to found — they just need a quiet place to figure out what.

Problem

Engineers stay building while *human making becomes a relic of the past...

Here's what I built.

Appendix

Every line item in the $500,000 ask, fully itemized.

Founder salary (year 1)	$175,000
12 months. Base + benefits, all in.
Running costs (year 1)	$90,000
Legal + accounting + banking + Anthropic API + SF trips (3 months living, weekly flights home) + Industrious office ($332/mo) + Claude Code ($200/mo) + Vercel + PlanetScale + Styth + GitHub.
Reserves	$10,000
Small cushion for unexpected costs.
Year 2 runway	$225,000
Held on the SAFE. Funds the founder's year-2 salary and running costs so the company can keep operating without raising again immediately.
Total ask (SAFE)	$500,000

Any capital raised above the valuation cap funds the maker-discovery customer segment — quarterly in-person beginner markets and paid pilots with non-developer tinkerers.
