What have I learned?

Problem

Engineers stay building while *human making becomes a relic of the past...

GTM Market

$2.85 billion a
year

22% of LinkedIn's 120 million paying subscribers × $9 a month.

~26 million tech, engineering, and design professionals already paying for a professional tool.
tinker is the next one.

Vision Market

$71.3 billion a
year

22% of Instagram's 3 billion users
× $9 a month.

22% of LinkedIn members are in tech, engineering, or design. Same ratio applied to Instagram.

Appendix

Every line item in the $500,000 ask, fully itemized.

Founder salary, year 1	$175,000
12 months. Base + benefits, all in.
Running costs, year 1	$90,000
Legal + accounting + banking + Anthropic API + SF trips (3 months living, weekly flights home) + Industrious office ($332/mo) + Claude Code ($200/mo) + Vercel + PlanetScale + Styth + GitHub.
Founder salary, year 2 (first 6 months)	$95,000
~6% inflation built into the year-2 rate. Keeps the founder in seat through the first half of year 2 without re-raising.
Running costs, year 2 (first 6 months)	$65,000
~45% scaling year-over-year — mostly Anthropic API growth as the user base expands. Other line items (office, stack) stay roughly flat.
Maker discovery + reserves	$75,000
Everything left after the year-1 and year-2 extrapolation. Funds the maker channel research (quarterly beginner markets, paid pilots) and a cushion for the unexpected.
Total ask (SAFE)	$500,000
